

SDSP 2007 Oil and Protein Challenge

- △ Producer must have delivered beans (in his own account) in the last year to SDSP to qualify for the participation gift and awards.
- △ Producer must submit sample to SDSP. (Sample should be at least one quart of beans.)
- △ Sample must be identified with producer name, address and phone number. The variety the sample represents must also be identified.
- △ SDSP will provide sample bags if the producer requests them.
- △ SDSP will not collect samples off trucks being dumped. It is the producer's responsibility to collect the sample and submit it to SDSP. The producer CAN collect the sample as you are dumping at SDSP, but you must collect it yourself and turn it in at the scale when you weigh out.
- △ Sample delivery time to SDSP will be October 1, 2007 through December 31, 2007.
- △ Sample must be 2007 harvested beans.
- △ Sample can be mailed to SDSP, dropped off at the SDSP Scale House or the SDSP Office in Volga.

All qualifying producers participating in challenge will receive the "Thank You" gift, a tool bag with tools included, for participation. All qualifying participants' names will be included in the final drawing for the grand prize.

The samples will be awarded in the following order: Best Combination, Highest Oil, Highest Protein. One of the above awards per producer. Once again, all names will be included in the final drawing for the grand prize, even if your sample won an individual award.

Awards presented, except for the grand prize, will be based on oil and protein content of the bean samples entered in the Challenge. The sample must contain the minimum of 18.5% oil and 34.4% protein to qualify for the highest oil, highest protein and best combination awards.

Some of the prizes will include biodiesel bucks, Cabelas gift certificates, pork certificates, Applebee's gift certificates, Beef Bucks cookbooks, and gift certificates for one night stay at motels.

Sponsors of the Challenge are United Soybean Board, South Dakota Soybean Promotion and Research Council, South Dakota Pork Producers, South Dakota "Beef Bucks" program, and SDSP.

Take the challenge and submit your bean samples to win!
